Please Note:

Prospective job candidates are URGED to check with the respective department, dean, or payroll office for a more detailed description of qualifications. DO NOT apply for jobs via CUPE 3912, but directly with the contact person for each job posting. Some departments may accept applications online; others might not. It is our recommendation that you include a COMPLETE CV with every application, even if it is not requested.

Jobs are listed newest-to-oldest and expired job postings are periodically archived.

SAINT MARY'S UNIVERSITY
FACULTY OF EDUCATION

POSTING OF AVAILABLE TEACHING ASSIGNMENTS

Posting Date: July 8, 2020

Education 1000.2 – Introduction to University Education

- Winter 2021
- Section B TR 2:30-3:45pm

The main objective of this course is to provide first-year students with an academic roadmap for university. Through self-evaluation, discussions, field experiences, and traditional classroom exercises, students will develop an understanding of the culture of the university so that they will be in a position to participate productively and effectively in their chosen field of study. The course normally attracts significant numbers of international students, and therefore it involves teaching strategies that will help students develop academic knowledge about English and advanced proficiency in the English language.

The course serves as a practicum site for students in the IMTE program, and therefore involves collaboration between the instructor and Masters students studying in the Faculty of Education.

Candidates should hold a PhD degree in Education and/or Philosophy with a track record of success teaching first-year students in an active learning format. Course instruction involves critical thinking pedagogy as well as the Socratic method and reflective practice, and therefore philosophical expertise related to Education is necessary. Additionally, experience teaching students whose first language is not English, as well as experience with practicum supervision of student teachers are required. Experience developing and delivering courses in an online environment is required.

Applications are invited from part-time faculty colleagues who have demonstrable teaching experience in this area and who are appointed to the Faculty of Education. Applications must include a letter of intent, CV, a teaching dossier, official transcript, and three letters of reference (the transcript and letters of reference should come from the institution or professors directly). Applicants need not submit materials already on file. Send applications to Dr. Esther E. Enns, Acting Dean, Faculty of Education, Saint Mary's University, Halifax, NS B3H 3C3.

Posting Date: June 17, 2020

Education 1000.1 – Introduction to University Education (Online Delivery)

- Section A TR 11:30am–12:45pm
- Section B MW 2:30-3:45pm

Education 1000.2 – Introduction to University Education

- Section A TR 1:00–2:15pm

The main objective of this course is to provide first-year students with an academic roadmap for university. Through self-evaluation, discussions, field experiences, and traditional classroom exercises, students will develop an understanding of the culture of the university so that they will be in a position to participate productively and effectively in their chosen field of study. The course normally attracts significant numbers of international students, and therefore it involves teaching strategies that will help students develop academic knowledge about English and advanced proficiency in the English language.

The course serves as a practicum site for students in the IMTE program, and therefore involves collaboration between the instructor and Masters students studying in the Faculty of Education.

Candidates should hold a PhD degree in Education and/or Philosophy with a track record of success teaching first-year students in an active learning format. Course instruction involves critical thinking pedagogy as well as the Socratic method and reflective practice, and therefore philosophical expertise related to Education is necessary. Additionally, experience teaching students whose first language is not English, as well as experience with practicum supervision of student teachers are required. Experience developing and delivering courses in an online environment is required.

Applications are invited from part-time faculty colleagues who have demonstrable teaching experience in this area and who are appointed to the Faculty of Education. Applications must include a letter of intent, CV, a teaching dossier, official transcript, and three letters of reference (the transcript and letters of reference should come from the institution or professors directly). Applicants need not submit materials already on file. Send applications to Dr. Esther E. Enns, Acting Dean, Faculty of Education, Saint Mary's University, Halifax, NS B3H 3C3.

The closing date is July 3, 2020.

EDUC 1101.1 – Learning English as an International Language I (Online Delivery)

MW 7:00-8:15pm

The course is an introduction to the historical, social and cultural contexts leading to the emergence of International (or Global) English, including a study of the effects it has had on global, national and regional identities and cultures, and the learning of English. The academic study of International English is integrated with development of English language proficiency for non-native speakers. The course is intended for speakers of English as a second or foreign language.

EDUC 1102 – Learning English as an International Language II

MW 7:00-8:15pm

The course is a continuation of EDUC 1101. The academic study of International English is integrated with development of English language proficiency for non-native speakers. It is not offered to students with advanced levels of competency in English.

For both EDUC 1101.1 and EDUC 1102.2, candidates must hold a Masters degree in a field directly related to Educational Linguistics with a focus on Teaching English as a Second/Foreign/Additional Language, professional teaching experience in ESL, international experience and professional communications experience involving global audiences and/or non-native speakers of English. A track record of success in work with international transfer students (2+2) involving development and delivery of credit courses using a content and language integrated learning approach (CLIL) is required. Experience developing and delivering courses in an online environment is required.

Applications are invited from part-time faculty colleagues who have demonstrable teaching experience in this area and who are appointed to the Faculty of Education. Applications must include a letter of intent, CV, a teaching dossier, official transcript, and three letters of reference (the transcript and letters of reference should come from the institution or professors directly). Applicants need not submit materials already on file. Send applications to Dr. Esther E. Enns, Acting Dean, Faculty of Education, Saint Mary's University, Halifax, NS B3H 3C3.

The closing date is July 3, 2020.

Education 4840.1 – Peace Education – International Perspectives and Practices (Online Delivery)

Fridays 10:00am -1:30pm

This course will explore the central approaches to educating populations for the understanding and practice of creating the conditions for a society in which violent conflict is not an option for conflict resolution. An exploration of international case studies and international contributions to peace education—creating the objective conditions for a peaceful society through educational practice in creating the subjective conditions for peace in schools and communities—will be used to assess current thinking in perspectives and practice. This course is often taken by those wishing to prepare for the Field School in Peace Education.

Applications are invited from part-time faculty colleagues who have demonstrable teaching experience in this area and who are appointed to the Faculty of Education. Applications must include a letter of intent, CV, a teaching dossier, official transcript, and three letters of reference (the transcript and letters of reference should come from the institution or professors directly). Applicants need not submit materials already on file. Send applications to Dr. Esther E. Enns, Acting Dean, Faculty of Education, Saint Mary's University, Halifax, NS B3H 3C3.

EDUC 4473.1 / EDUC 5673.1 – Innovations in Education:
Reforms (Online Delivery)

Tuesdays 6:00 pm – 8:30 pm (Fall term)

This course will assess, compare and contrast variations and reforms to mainstream educational systems, and will emphasize the conditions out of which such reforms are initiated. Special emphasis will be given to contrasting public systems of education with privatization initiatives, together with public/private partnerships and changes that affect access to education, gender and education, and so on. This course will draw on the considerable body of literature and concrete case studies throughout the world; however, considerable emphasis will be given to examples and case studies from the regions or sub-regions of Asia, Africa, Latin America and the Middle East/North Africa.

- and-

EDUC 4474.2 / EDUC 5674.2 – Innovations in Education:
Alternatives

Tuesdays 7:00 pm – 9:30 pm (Winter term)

This course will seek to understand the material and social conditions, practical initiatives, rationale and outcomes of radical alternatives to mainstream education and mainstream educational reforms. Above and beyond in-depth discussions of perspectives on informal and non-formal educational systems, the works of Illich, Freire, and other educational radicals will be discussed, as will the concepts of intercultural bilingual education, social capital education, and other alternative conceptions of education. The course will provide a forum for the discussion and deeper understanding of the relation between the larger social, political and economic structure and the educational goals and objectives of radical education alternatives. Considerable emphasis will be given to examples and case studies from the regions or sub-regions of Asia, Africa, Latin America and the Middle East/North Africa.

Candidates must hold a PhD in Education and International Development Studies with experience teaching senior undergraduate and graduate courses in the field of education and international development. Semester: Summer 2020

Schedule: MTWR 9:00am to 12:00pm

Program Description:

The Certificate in the Mathematical Sciences for Education (CMSE) is designed for high school and junior high school teachers who wish to improve their mathematical background. It is approved for teaching licence upgrading in Nova Scotia by the Minister's Advisory Committee on Teacher Certification. The CMSE program is for students who hold a Bachelor of Education degree or equivalent.

Course Description:

EDUC 5523 Teaching Methods for Mathematics Intended for teachers from junior and senior high schools in Nova Scotia, students will learn to integrate mathematical skills acquired in other Certificate in the Mathematical Sciences for Education courses into their teaching practice, using these skills to create a more effective learning climate in the math classroom, create and use problem-solving strategies and cooperative learning techniques, make appropriate use of technology, and develop a deeper understanding of the role of secondary school mathematics in lifelong learning. Students will examine a variety of teaching strategies and instructional resources for designing, implementing, and enriching mathematical instruction. They will engage in reflection on their conceptions of math and their teaching approaches, examine and present recent research, share examples of exemplary practice, study students' learning needs and curriculum design and develop a personal and professional growth plan.

Qualifications:

Candidates must hold at least a Masters degree in a field directly related to Mathematics; a PhD is preferred. Their educational and/or professional background must also include experience in pedagogical aspects of teaching mathematics; prior experience in teaching in-service education courses is preferred. This course will involve remote modes of teaching, including technologies for teaching online. Demonstrated effectiveness in teaching in digital environments is required.

Remuneration:

Remuneration is in accordance with the Collective Agreement between Saint Mary's University and CUPE 3912; in addition, a remote delivery development stipend will be granted.

How to Apply:

Applications are invited in the first instance from part-time faculty colleagues on the Saint Mary's precedence list. Applicants who currently hold a part-time teaching appointment at Saint Mary's University should submit a cover letter and a C.V. Applicants who do not currently hold a part-time teaching appointment at Saint Mary's University should submit a complete application (including a cover letter, CV, proof of academic credentials, name and contact information of three referees, and any evidence of teaching effectiveness).

Submissions are made as a single PDF file sent directly via email to: john.irving@smu.ca

Application deadline: May 5, 2020

Saint Mary's University hires on the basis of merit and is committed to the principles of employment equity. Saint Mary's University encourages applications from qualified women, visible minorities, Aboriginal people, and people with disabilities. Preference will be given to Canadian citizens and permanent residents of Canada.

They must have experience working in a graduate program with a focus on elementary and/or middle school education, as well as experience in delivering fully on-line courses and supporting distance education learners, ideally using the Moodle/Collaborate platform.

Duties: Preparation, teaching, student consultation, grading and marking, distribution of student evaluation questionnaires, involvement in student appeals, and other duties appropriate to the appointment. _____

Additional Duties:

This is an online course offering. Applicants must provide evidence of successful experience using online and related technologies (Blackboard/Collaborate; Moodle) teaching course content specific to the advertised position. The University may hire an otherwise qualified applicant conditional upon the applicant participating in additional training through the MSVU Teaching and Learning Centre and Online Learning (TLCOL) office to reach a level of competence before the course begins.

Saint Mary's University
Faculty of Education

CUPE 3912 Job Posting for Part-Time Instructor

Course:IMTE 5641.1

Principles of Language Acquisition for Education

International Master of Teaching English (IMTE), Faculty of Education

Semester:Fall 2019 (second half)

Schedule:October 21 to December 11, 2019 (two classes per week)

Mondays 5:30 – 8:00pm

and Wednesdays 4:30 pm – 7:00 pm

Program Description:

Saint Mary's University's new International Master of Teaching English program (IMTE) prepares non-native English speaking students to be teachers of English as an Additional Language (EAL/EFL/ESL) for the global context. The program includes elements relating to the Cambridge English Teacher Framework. More information about the program is available at www.smu.ca/IMTE.

Course Description:

Intended primarily for teachers of English as a second or foreign language (EAL/EFL/ESL), this course focuses on the nature of language acquisition. An overview of first language acquisition, including the written language, is followed by an examination of factors involved in the acquisition of an additional language by older learners.

Qualifications:

Candidates must hold a doctorate in a field directly related to Teaching English as a Second/Foreign/Additional Language, and have expertise in second language learning theory. FACULTY OF EDUCATION

Posting Date: April 29, 2019

EDUC 4828.2 – Special Topic: Peace Education
Mondays 5:00 pm – 8:00 pm

COURSE DESCRIPTION

This course explores the history and fundamental concepts and practices of peace education in Canada and internationally. We will analyze the role schools can play in equipping youth with the attitudes, knowledge and skills necessary to prevent conflict and resolve conflict peacefully. We will investigate ways in which peace education can become an integral component of daily life in all schools and how peace education can be incorporated into existing curricula. Within the framework of peace education, we will also take a critical look at the history and purpose of compulsory schooling and the influence of the hidden curriculum on school culture.

Candidates must hold a Masters degree in a field related to Peace Education, professional experience in conflict mediation in educational institutions, and successful experience teaching senior undergraduate courses in this field. A track record of guiding students in experiential learning projects involving community engagement is required. The successful candidate will have a network of local and international partners willing to engage in elements of the course.

Education 4838.2 – Field School: Peace Education in Northern Ireland
Mondays 5:00 pm – 8:00 pm

This course is offered in association with EDUC 4828 and involves a field trip to Northern Ireland that takes place during the February break period.

Candidates must have prior experience teaching peace education field courses in Northern Ireland.

Applications are invited in the first instance from part-time faculty colleagues who are on the precedence list. The closing date is May 10, 2019.

The Faculty of Education is seeking instructors to teach the following three-credit-hour course in the Winter semester of the 2018-2019 academic year:

EDUC 1000.2A – Introduction to University Education

Tuesdays/Thursdays 1:00 – 2:15 pm

The main objective of this course is to provide first-year students with an academic roadmap for university. Through self-evaluation, discussions, field experiences, and traditional classroom exercises, students will develop an understanding of the culture of the university so that they will be in a position to participate productively and effectively in their chosen field of study. The course normally attracts significant numbers of international students, and therefore it involves teaching strategies that will help students develop academic knowledge about English and advanced proficiency in the English language. The course serves as a practicum site for students in the IMTE program, and therefore involves collaboration between the instructor and Masters students studying in the Faculty of Education. Candidates should hold a PhD degree in Education and/or Philosophy with a track record of success teaching first-year students in an active learning format. Course instruction involves critical thinking pedagogy as well as the Socratic method and reflective practice, and therefore philosophical expertise related to Education is necessary. Additionally, experience teaching students whose first language is not English, as well as experience with practicum supervision of student teachers are required. Applicants are invited in the first instance from part-time faculty colleagues who are on the precedence list. The closing date is November 9, 2018.

Applications should be sent to:

EDUC 4828.2 – Special Topic: Peace Education
Mondays 5:00 pm – 8:00 pm

COURSE DESCRIPTION

This course explores the history and fundamental concepts and practices of peace education in Canada and internationally. We will analyze the role schools can play in equipping youth with the attitudes, knowledge and skills necessary to prevent conflict and resolve conflict peacefully. We will investigate ways in which peace education can become an integral component of daily life in all schools and how peace education can be incorporated into existing curricula. Within the framework of peace education, we will also take a critical look at the history and purpose of compulsory schooling and the influence of the hidden curriculum on school culture.

Candidates must hold a Masters degree in a field related to Peace Education, professional experience in conflict mediation in educational institutions, and successful experience teaching senior undergraduate courses in this field. A track record of guiding students in experiential learning projects involving community engagement is required.
