Course: RELS 2330 WW – Spirituality and Work

Department: Department of RELIGIOUS STUDIES, Faculty of Arts, Saint Mary's University.

Semester: FALL, (SEP 9 TO DEC 22, 2020)

Schedule: WW

Academic Calendar Description:

Is the emerging (or re-emerging) interest in spirituality in the workplace enabling more individual fulfillment and better decision-making or is it creating new conflicts and more exclusionary workplace practices? What influences do religious traditions and worldviews have on how we work together? The increasing globalization of business and communication, the need for more qualified immigrants to Canada, and the growing diversity of people in many workplaces is forcing re-examination of inherited attitudes and expectations about work. These changes require deep understanding of what spirituality, as the deepest source of values, can mean as workplaces change and people make choices about work, vocation, or calling. This course explores the potential, the benefits and the dangers of bringing spirituality into the workplace. This is an online course delivered in coordination with The Centre of Teaching and Learning at Saint Mary's University.

SPIRITUALITY AND WORK

Department: Department of RELIGIOUS STUDIES, Faculty of Arts,

Saint Mary's University.

Semester: SUMMER I (11 MAY 2020 – 22 JUNE 2020)

Schedule: WW

Academic Calendar Description:

Is the emerging (or re-emerging) interest in spirituality in the workplace enabling more individual fulfillment and better decision-making or is it creating new conflicts and more exclusionary workplace practices? What influences do religious traditions and worldviews have on how we work together? The increasing globalization of business and communication, the need for more qualified immigrants to Canada, and the growing diversity of people in many workplaces is forcing re-examination of inherited attitudes and expectations about work. These changes require deep understanding of what spirituality, as the deepest source of values, can mean as workplaces change and people make choices about work, vocation, or calling. This course explores the potential, the benefits and the dangers of bringing spirituality into the workplace.

Spirituality and Work

Department: Department of RELIGIOUS STUDIES, Faculty of Arts, Saint Mary's University.

Semester: FALL, (SEP 1 TO DEC 31, 2019)

Schedule:

Academic Calendar Description:

Is the emerging (or re-emerging) interest in spirituality in the workplace enabling more individual fulfillment and better decision-making or is it creating new conflicts and more exclusionary workplace practices? What influences do religious traditions and worldviews have on how we work together? The increasing globalization of business and communication, the need for more qualified immigrants to Canada, and the growing diversity of people in many workplaces is forcing re-examination of inherited attitudes and expectations about work. These changes require deep understanding of what spirituality, as the deepest source of values, can mean as workplaces change and people make choices about work, vocation, or calling. This course explores the potential, the benefits and the dangers of bringing spirituality into the workplace.

SPIRITUALITY AND WORK

Department:Department of RELIGIOUS STUDIES, Faculty of Arts, Saint Mary's University.

Semester:FALL, (Sep 1 to Dec 31, 2018)

Schedule:WW

Academic Calendar Description:

Is the emerging (or re-emerging) interest in spirituality in the workplace enabling more individual fulfillment and better decision-making or is it creating new conflicts and more exclusionary workplace practices? What influences do religious traditions and worldviews have on how we work together? The increasing globalization of business and communication, the need for more qualified immigrants to Canada, and the growing diversity of people in many workplaces is forcing re-examination of inherited attitudes and expectations about work. These changes require deep understanding of what spirituality, as the deepest source of values, can mean as workplaces change and people make choices about work, vocation, or calling. This course explores the potential, the benefits and the dangers of bringing spirituality into the workplace.
