Please Note:

Prospective job candidates are URGED to check with the respective department, dean, or payroll office for a more detailed description of qualifications. DO NOT apply for jobs via CUPE 3912, but directly with the contact person for each job posting. Some departments may accept applications online; others might not. It is our recommendation that you include a COMPLETE CV with every application, even if it is not requested.

Jobs are listed newest-to-oldest and expired job postings are periodically archived.

CUPE 3912 Job Posting for Part-Time Teaching Position

Course: ANTH 2273 Who Owns the Past?

Department: Department of Anthropology, Faculty of Arts, Saint Mary's University.

Semester: Winter 2021

Schedule: NA (course will be taught asynchronously online)

Academic Calendar Description:

Why preserve the past, and in what form? How has the past been used and abused for political purposes in different historical and cultural contexts? To what extent have administrative policies and ethnocentric attitudes towards indigenous peoples alienated indigenes from anthropologists? How do museums, collections, the restitution of cultural property and the illicit traffic in relics contribute to the situation?

Qualifications:

Applicants must possess at least an MA degree in Anthropology or a related discipline with specialized knowledge of the subject matter of the course. Applicants must also demonstrate that they have long-term experience interacting meaningfully with one or more indigenous communities in Canada. In keeping with the Collective Agreement between Saint Mary's University and CUPE, Local 3912, applicants will have precedence based on the number of credit courses they have previously taught at Saint Mary's, providing they meet the requirements stipulated in the job posting.

Remuneration:

Remuneration is in accordance with the Collective Agreement between Saint Mary's University and CUPE 3912

How to Apply:

Applications are invited in the first instance from part-time faculty colleagues on the Saint Mary's precedence list. Applicants who currently hold a part-time teaching appointment at Saint Mary's University should submit a cover letter and a C.V. Applicants who do not currently hold a part-time teaching appointment at Saint Mary's University should submit a complete application (including a cover letter, CV, proof of academic credentials, name and contact information of three referees, and any evidence of teaching effectiveness).

Submissions should be made as a single PDF file sent directly via email to: rylan.higgins@smu.ca

Application deadline: 6 November 2020

Saint Mary's University hires on the basis of merit and is committed to the principles of employment equity. Saint Mary's University encourages applications from qualified women, visible minorities, Aboriginal people, and people with disabilities. Preference will be given to Canadian citizens and permanent residents of Canada.

CUPE 3912 Job Posting for Part-Time Teaching Position

Course: ANTH 3467 Cultural Resource Management Archaeology
Department: Department of Anthropology, Faculty of Arts, Saint Mary's University.

Semester: Winter 2020

Schedule: MW 10:00 am – 11:15 am

Academic Calendar Description:

Cultural Resource Management (CRM), as an applied form of archaeological research, is a rapidly expanding field of practice where many students and graduates of archaeological curricula develop their professional careers. Students will be introduced to its principles and learn about legislation, policy and protocols that impact CRM archaeology. Students will also be introduced to applications of geomatics technology, including geographic information systems (GIS), for CRM archaeology. Case studies will comprise a fundamental source of information in this course. The format is that of a seminar.

Qualifications:

Applicants must possess at least an MA degree in Anthropology or a related discipline with specialized knowledge of the subject matter of the course. In keeping with the Collective Agreement between Saint Mary's University and CUPE, Local 3912, applicants will have precedence based on the number of credit courses they have previously taught at Saint Mary's, providing they meet the requirements stipulated in the job posting.

Remuneration:

Remuneration is in accordance with the Collective Agreement between Saint Mary's University and CUPE 3912

How to Apply:

Applications are invited in the first instance from part-time faculty colleagues on the Saint Mary's precedence list. Applicants who currently hold a part-time teaching appointment at Saint Mary's University should submit a cover letter and a C.V. Applicants who do not currently hold a part-time teaching appointment at Saint Mary's University should submit a complete application (including a cover letter, CV, proof of academic credentials, name and contact information of three referees, and any evidence of teaching effectiveness).

Submissions are made as a single PDF file sent directly via email to: rylan.higgins@smu.ca

Application deadline: 4 November 2019

Saint Mary's University hires on the basis of merit and is committed to the principles of employment equity. Saint Mary's University encourages applications from qualified women, visible minorities, Aboriginal people, and people with disabilities. Preference will be given to Canadian citizens and permanent residents of Canada.

REFUGEE AFFAIRS AND CIVIL SOCIETY

Department: Department of Anthropology, Faculty of Arts, Saint Mary's University.

Semester: Summer, 08-18 July 2018 Schedule: daily 9:00 am – 12:00 pm

Academic Calendar Description:

This course will examine the international and institutional framework for protection or refugee rights as well as the historical currents that produce forced migration. Students will develop practical knowledge of refugee affairs and also a critically nuanced look at the global and political structures that lead to refugee and forced migration flows. Students will look in particular at Canada's role vis-a-vis refugees, examining the country's obligations on the international stage. Through site visits, students will become aware of the multiple layers of refugee service provision as well as the historically important role played by Canada, and Halifax, in international refugee protection. Lecture components will take place on the Saint Mary's University campus and field components primarily at a Halifax-based refugee organization, together with one or two other relevant site visits in Halifax.

Qualifications:

Applicants must possess at least an MA degree in anthropology or a related discipline with specialized knowledge of the subject matter of the course. They must have an established relationship with a Halifax-based organization that works with refugees and must have prior approval to involve the organization in the course. ANTH 3710-3719 Field Study in Anthropology: Forced Migration and Atlantic Refugees

06-16 August 2017

Daily 9:00 am – 12:00 pm

Location: Saint Mary's University and off campus

Academic Calendar Description

"This course is designed to allow students to take advantage of field study, including international study, opportunities not necessarily supervised by a member of the Department of Anthropology. Special arrangements for the course must be approved by the Department Chairperson, at the request of the student."

More Information About the Course

This course will examine the international and institutional framework for protection or refugee rights as well as the historical currents that produce forced migration. Students will develop practical knowledge of refugee affairs and also a critically nuanced look at the global and political structures that lead to refugee and forced migration flows. Students will look in particular at Canada's role vis-a-vis refugees, examining the country's obligations on the international stage. Through site visits, students will become aware of the multiple layers of refugee service provision as well as the historically important role played by Canada, and Halifax, in international refugee protection. Lecture components will take place on the Saint Mary's University campus and field components primarily at a Halifax Regional Municipality refugee organization, together with one or two other relevant site visits in Halifax.
